

The Woodman.

BY JAMES H. H. WHITE.

All day long the woodman
Takes his glittering axe,
And the echoes of his song
Come with him to the forest.He comes with his axe and his song,
And the echoes of his song
Come with him to the forest.He comes with his axe and his song,
And the echoes of his song
Come with him to the forest.He comes with his axe and his song,
And the echoes of his song
Come with him to the forest.He comes with his axe and his song,
And the echoes of his song
Come with him to the forest.He comes with his axe and his song,
And the echoes of his song
Come with him to the forest.He comes with his axe and his song,
And the echoes of his song
Come with him to the forest.He comes with his axe and his song,
And the echoes of his song
Come with him to the forest.He comes with his axe and his song,
And the echoes of his song

Late News Items.

Bees have been found in the trees on the Sierra Mountains at an altitude of 8,000 feet.
Pneumatism was first used in literature in 1520. Before that time it was only a word, and was not a science.

Hallstones tasting like gum camphor are said by the inhabitants of Janesville, Mich., to have fallen in that town recently.

The shrewd authorities of St. Paul, Minn., propose to catch drunkards by tarred lamp posts. One conspicuous post is estimated to be worth about ten constables.

A man who fell into a vat of boiling lard, and got out of it alive, says it is not an unpleasant sensation after the first moment, but he thought that a mighty queer-shaped doughnut he would make.

The Shah of Persia, before leaving London, made many presents, including $5,000 to the servants of Buckingham Palace, and $12,000 to the policemen who were stationed there.

The Boston Transcript recalls the remark of a quaker old clergyman of the last generation, in that city, who used to say that bread is the staff of life, but bread and butter is a gold-headed cane.

The Danbury News has been in Quincy, and takes occasion to remark: "They call this city Quincy, but to a man climbing up one of its streets from the depot, Astoria would seem a title more appropriate."

Captain Jack prefers a moderate and eminently proper request, which he hopes will be granted. He asks to be relieved of his chains long enough to interview the chap who accuses him of having written Heaven and I are One.

The Missouri Editorial Convention was opened with prayer by Elder Berry, and the Troy Chief thinks that "It may have been opened by elder-berry, but it'll wag it was closed by juniper-berry and old rye."

The Norwich, Conn., Lock Company makes 1,200 locks per day. One of their recent inventions is a lock so constructed as to admit of 700 changes, and requiring a key for each change; yet a "master" key is made which will unlock the whole.

A woman in Connecticut was recently bereft of the faculty of speech by a snowball, and many married men in that part of the country have been heard to remark that, after all, winter has advantages not afforded by any other season.

Works are now being erected in Pittsburg to manufacture pressed bricks with enameled facings. The enamel is made of various colors to suit the tastes of architects or builders, and is impervious to water or acids, having a surface that can be cleaned like glass.

Henry Ward Beecher, being asked if Unitarians are Christians, replied: "We have only to say it depends on the Unitarians. A man's being a Unitarian or a Trinitarian, does not make him a Christian. It is of greater consequence that a man act rightly than to believe rightly."

A woman up town who is the happy mother of a cross-eyed child explains the seeming defect in his visual organs by saying that it was born at midnight of a Wednesday, and immediately commenced looking towards both ends of the week for Sunday, the day upon which it expected to be christened.

The family of Mr. McGillivray, on Pine Street, is a happy one. Saturday evening a married daughter returned after a ten years' absence; Saturday noon his boy received a handsome Bible for faithful attendance at Sabbath School, and in the afternoon the old gentleman caught thirty-five perch and six eels in Nerevank pond.

A prominent business man in Springfield failed to know who "Matilda" is. She sent him a postal card, Saturday, saying she was out of money, and unless $6 was forthcoming immediately she should go round and see his wife. Another man is cross because somebody in Boston sent him an invitation to address a Sunday School, and also to pay $12.75 for drinks, all on the same card. It's getting to be unpleasant to take a postoffice clerk in the face.
